

Editors' Note

We have completed six years of publication. Our mission was to provide a platform to the researchers, faculty and students to spread their findings. The goal was to link people from different ways of life to encourage others research contribution. This was not an easy task. Gathering researchers from different fields and convincing them to work as editorial board member, was a tedious job. We fortunately succeeded in developing an editorial board comprising of reputed scholars from different parts of the globe. Researchers from different Universities and research organizations were kind enough to submit their articles for possible publication. Internal and external reviewers worked with dedication, going through each submitted article, preparing and giving feedback to improve the quality of the submitted articles, is appreciated.

Scientific development is at a much faster speed and we are reading about new innovations from almost everywhere. We as a nation have to struggle to popularize the innovation culture. Drive out fear and let our scholar be bold enough to ask questions and to develop solutions.

University curriculum should be improved to allow young researchers to come up with new ideas, popularize proposed procedures, develop new procedures and help users and students.

Note: Issue based on papers presented in the conference are not subject to the standard of PJETS.
